THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Hon. Thomas Wren Thinks the Law Relating Thereto Has Been Completed With.

EUREKA, NOV. 27, 1892.
EDITOR STATE JOURNAL.—After a careful examination in reference to the method necessary to be pursued in order to amend the Constitution through the action of the Legislature, I am convinced that all has been done in reference to the pending amendments by the Secretary of State that is required up to the present time.

Section 1, Article XVI of the Constitution provides:

That an amendment or amendments may be proposed in the Senate or A-sembly, and if the same shall be agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each of the two Houses, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on their respective Journals with the year and day taken thereon and referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen."

I presume the pending amendments were "agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each of the two Houses;" that they were "entered on their respective Journals with the year and day taken thereon," and that they were "referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen."

Now, assuming that all of these requirements were complied with by the last Legislature, what was the next step required? The section of the Constitution above cited provides that the amendment or amendments shall "be published for three months next preceding the term of" choosing the members of the Legislature next to be chosen after the passage of the amendment or amendments by the Legislature in which they were first proposed and agreed to. It will be observed that this latter clause of the Constitution only provides for the publication of the proposed amendment; generally, and the length of time they are to be published, but does not make it the duty of any one to publish them nor does it prescribe the mode in which they shall be published.

It was the obvious intention of the Constitutional Convention to invest the Legislature with the power to devolve the duty of publishing the amendments in compliance with Section 1, Article XVI of the Constitution, upon some one or more State officers and to provide for their publication along with the Statutes and Journals of the Legislature or in some newspaper or otherwise.

The amendments to the Constitution are proposed to the Legislature and passed in the form of joint resolutions. Section 7 of the "Act concerning the office of Secretary of State" provides that "it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to superintend the printing of the Act, joint resolutions and Journals required by law to be printed and to distribute the laws and Journals as soon as printed"—General Statutes of Nevada, Section 1793.

Sections 14 and 15 of "An Act to Establish a State Printing Office and to Create the Office of Superintendent of State Printing," provide for the printing of the Statutes, resolutions and memorials passed by each Legislature and also the Journals of each House—General Statutes of Nevada, Sections 1873 and 1874.

We have already seen that the Legislature in which Constitutional Amendments are first proposed and passed are required to enter them on the respective Journals of each House in compliance with Section 1 of Article XVI of the Constitution, and that as resolutions they must be printed along with the Statutes under the section of the Statutes above cited almost immediately after the Legislature adjourns, and it is made the duty of the Secretary of State to distribute, i.e. publish them promptly. In the case of the amendments now pending all this, I understand, has been done. Certainly there has been no omission to publish as required by the Constitution and laws. It only then remains for the next Legislature to agree to the pending amendments in the mode prescribed by Section 1, Article XVI of the Constitution and submit them to the voters of the State in such manner and at such time as the Legislature shall deem most expedient. Under the law passed by the Legislature in 1887 it would then be the duty of the State Board of Examiners to publish the amendment, as required by that statute as held by a majority of the Court in the case of the State ex rel Galusha vs. Davis, 20 Nevada, 220. It is true that in this case Judge Hawley dissented, but it was upon the ground that the publication of the then pending amendments in the Statutes and Journals was sufficient, and that no second publication in accordance with the law of 1887 was necessary.

This is a matter of vast importance to the people of this State. Many of the pending amendments should be submitted to the people prior to the next general election in the interest of economy. As a special election will therefore be necessary, it should be called at an early day. If any additional publication should be necessary some simpler method should be adopted than that provided by the law of 1887, as is very evident from the opinion of a majority of the Court in the case of the State ex rel Galusha vs. Davis, 20 Nevada, 220. It is true that in this case Judge Hawley dissented, but it was upon the ground that the publication of the then pending amendments in the Statutes and Journals was sufficient, and that no second publication in accordance with the law of 1887 was necessary.

The following is said to be an excellent remedy for pneumonia: One tablespoonful of castor oil, one tablespoonful of flour of sulphur and one tablespoonful of turpentine; mix well and take in one dose.

STATE UNIVERSITY.

The Progress Being Made in the Mechanical Department.

The Mechanical Department of the State University work, on account of ignorance of what is being done in it, is generally regarded with little favor by the people of the State. But a visit to the workshop will show that, considering the comparatively small amount of money the Regents have for the support of this department, it has made wonderful progress and gives promise of still greater in the future.

The shop is situated on the east side of the campus north of the station building. It is divided into two departments, a carpenter shop and an iron working shop.

The carpenter shop itself speaks for the skill of those working in it, since it was built almost entirely by student labor. It contains twelve work benches, each bench being provided with a locker for tools. Each bench is supplied with all the tools required for ordinary work. In the tool room and the machine room others are provided for sp. cl. work, such as a power saw, former, turning lathe, scroll saw, mortise, etc. This department has been in operation one year, and in that time some very good work has been turned out, and, contrary to what would generally be supposed, very little botched work. Recently this department turned out some very neat boxes which are to be filled with samples from the different counties of the State and sent to the World's Fair. The different people throughout the State who receive these boxes can judge for themselves what sort of work is being done in this department.

The iron working department, though it has not been in operation as long as the other, has made very creditable progress. It is fitted up with seven vices with files, hammers, etc., planer, lathe, drill press, emery wheels, grinding stone, forge, plumb, etc. Another iron lathe and jigsaw have been presented to the school by Mr. Theodore Winters and will soon be placed in position in the machine room. At present some of the students in the mechanical department are constructing a small engine and a dynamo from rough castings. The others are engaged in overhauling and repairing the fifteen-horse power engine recently purchased from Mr. Winters. It will be used to run the machinery in the shop, as the gasoline engine used at present for this purpose is too small.

Since the interest in this department is on the increase it is likely that the workshop will soon have to be enlarged.

Professor Brown has charge of both the carpenter and iron-working shops and to his able and efficient management is due a great part of the past year's success. He is a thorough mechanic and understands all the branches of the work to be done in his department.

It is not the aim to make thorough mechanics of the students in a two years' course, but to give them a general knowledge of the use and care of tools and machinery so that, if they wish, they may follow some special branch in after life.

Deserves Attention.

If you have money to invest in Reno real estate, either in large or small amounts, the Reno Real Estate and Investment Company offers most particular inducements to you. By investing in its shares of stock you participate in its investments which are governed by its able and experienced Board of Trustees, consisting of Mr. O. T. Bender, Mr. Sol L. Levy, Mr. C. C. Powning, Mr. Gen. F. Torrington and Mr. A. G. Fletcher. The principle object of the company is to purchase and improve centrally located business property in the city of Reno. Everyone is of one mind as to the desirability of such investments.

The company is incorporated with a capital of $100,000, divided into 20,000 shares of the par value of five dollars each, and from its already large list of share holders there is every reason to believe that it is destined to become one of the most flourishing companies in the State. Of its 20,000 shares there have been 12,000 sold since August 1st.

Its shares are sold upon the monthly installment plan of ten cents per share, installments to range over a period of fifty months. In this way persons of moderate means are enabled to combine and partake in investments that usually only fall to the lot of the fortunate capitalist. Mr. F. M. Lee, the Secretary of the company, will be pleased to furnish any desired information.

The Storm.

The rain of the last few days which has fallen steadily as though the forty days of another deluge was upon us, yesterday noon changed to snow. The big flakes tumbled down one after the other thick and fast all the rest of the day and until about nine o'clock at night, when the stars came out. The river raised more than two feet in the twenty-four hours ending last night. All the creeks are back full, while every little ravine has its miniature torrent of muddy water rushing to discharge itself into the Truckee.

Canyon Creek, which flows through the upper part of town, has in many places overflowed its banks and invaded cellars and doorways. The sluiceway at the head of the Riverside Mill ditch has been carried away.

The Orr ditch broke about a mile and a half above town yesterday afternoon, tearing out thirty yards of C. P. track and flooding the roadbed for a considerable distance.

Dry Creek, near the Huffaker school house, is very high, while the V. & T. track is under water in many places.

Wires All Down.

Reno last evening was without communication with the outside world. Not a wire was standing after 6 o'clock, east, west or along the V. & T. Two wires east were in working order at 6 o'clock, but they, too, gave way.

Overcoats.

Fine Milton and Beaver overcoats made to order for $20 and upwards. Do not fail to see the elegant samples at Wanamaker & Brown's, Virginia street, next to Justice Court.

UP RIVER NOTES.

Editor Floriston—A Severe Storm Which Frooted Trees and Telegraph Poles.

FLORISTON, CAL., Nov. 28, 1892.
This morning the dwelling house of the Rocky Run Ice Co. was destroyed by fire; building and contents are a total loss. The family of Geo. Christianson barely escaped with enough clothes to cover themselves, and a few articles of bedding were saved. The fire caught from the fine of a new range. A strong wind was blowing and a snow storm was raging at the time. In less than forty-five minutes the entire building was in ashes. Mr. Geo. Christianson was in Verdi at the time; his loss will be about $1,500, no insurance, but the Ice Co. had the building insured. They had just finished extensive improvements, built on an extension, and set up a new range. It is thought the strong wind must have wrench the chimney in such a manner as to cause fire. The company has just declared a dividend of $1 per share.

The first section of the Act reads as follows:

"Wherever the conditions prescribed by the Constitution of the State of Nevada for amending the same have been complied with by the Legislature, the State Board of Examiners shall ord. such proposed amendments to the Constitution published in one daily newspaper of general circulation published in the State of Nevada for a period of ninety days next preceding any general election held in this State, when any proposed amendments are pending."

The Board of Examiners consists of the Governor, Secretary of State and Attorney General.
